That he should have been injured faially in the lightest of practices shows the ascertain nature of the game. It was while running for a ball on the side lines that he slipped and fell, the full contributing even more to his death than the impact of another player.

As the university faculty very properly called off the games it had scheduled for two dates, the midweek was unbroken by my match. High and Manual opened the attractionistic series yesterday, and this are the gridien feature in the way of

Academy has been doing well for

Smith Academy has been doing well in its games. The red and white squad appears to have a better chance than ever before of capturing its games' straight down the line this year, and its prospects to the linal match with High School are probably better than hast year.

Athereths of cither school have been delivering Tong arguments as to which is the better team. Arguments now are not going to affect the result. That High's work against Washington's second team was somewhat better than that of Smith Academy against the same eleven is the beilef of some witnesses of both contests, while others full to agree with this view. One thing is certain, that both teams are evenly matched and that each has about as good material as it has had for several years. While Smith Academy has more veteran players, High School has enough men of last season and is in sufficiently good condition to make its chances at least even with those of its opponent of Trankagiving.

As a result of insubordination on the Lehigh eleven. Captain Farahaugh of that team has resigned and will play bereafter on the scrubs. This incident occurred after the game of ten days ago, when the elevn made a good showing against Prince-

Minor feaths of the East are in high feather this year, Amherat's victory over Harvard will doubtless swell the former college with pride almost to the bursting point. In fact, that it has already done to was exemplified when a weaker team met and defeated Amherat a week later. Harvard's competers had come to consider themselves invincible in that short space of seven days, and played accordingly.

Accerding to Magistrate Crane, a Justice of the Peace in Hariem, N. Y., foot ball is worse than prize fighting. Haseball is a legitimate sport, the Judge declares, while football is not. One thing which indicates that Pennsylvania's changes will be good is the fact that team work has been brought to

with loose fiving.

McGovern and Daugherty both suffered Tragile, was considerably affected by the constant pounding received in stage sparing exhibitions with the heavier McGovern. It is said that he never recovered from the effects of these bouts, and his deterioration, in a fighting way, after his withdrawal from the stage, bears out the stage, bears out the state of the city of memoria on the state. This will make the city of memoria on the state, bears out the state.

McGovern appears to have merely suffered in health. His the effects were enough to destroy much of his ability as a lighter. When Young Corbett pur him away for the first time, it was thought that Terry was merely under a temporary cloud that he would regain his old-time more and quitting the stage.

The outcome has not borne out this belief. Terry has never regained his oldtime form. Condition seems to have left him, and he seems to have but his pun-ishing properties almost entirely.

Some may believe that the late hours of stane life did not affect McGovern as long as he did not indulge in dissipation. These have another theory. They are of the school who think that one declaive kneckout punch, landed squarely on the law of fighter, undefeated to that time, has a more crushing effect than anything circ.

has a more crushing effect than anything class.

They point to the lact that Jim Corbett was never the same man after Pitz put him away with a solar plexus bunch. That Peter Maher never remained his old time form after Pitz stowed him away in their bout at Langtry. That Kid McCoy started on the downward path after Sharker administered a decisive leating to him. And that Steve Orponnell gave promise as a lighter until Moher landed on his faw in two successive battles.

Fitzelmmons knocked Sharker out without the suffer heing thrown from the running, but this is the execution that proves the rule, they claim. This school of ling fellowers insign that it was the knocked from Young Corbett which eliminated him from the nuclistic upper crust.

However that may be, it is certain that McGovern is not the Terry of old. He is still a dangerous man in his class, and is a touch little apponent at rough faciling. But that is about all that can be said of him.

The Caffahan is still leard from in the East. Every ever in awhile he helds up as fighther some man of his own weight. Most of his antigomits, it must be said on the artistic of a ministrel show, with dancing to bollow. MRITTEN FOR THE SUNDAY REPUBLIC.
